Description

We are proud to announce we now have for sale these imported hand carved wooden beetle handling sticks, traditionally used by beetle breeders in Thailand. The unique design means you can whirl it against a flat surface to create vibrations that the adult will react to. Also you can touch the beetle in particular spots to make him turn around. In these ways you can train and control the movements of your beetle, without harming it. The handling stick is safer than trying to pull the beetle off a surface, which can damage their legs. A great tool for anyone passionate about the hobby of keeping rhinoceros beetles.

A great gift for beetle keepers, comes complete with presentation box - and now 25% off!
